

CAREER PROFILING

Prepares you for a happier career

When pursuing an ideal career, considering your personality traits can help establish your strengths and weaknesses. This reflection not only identifies your existing technical skills, but how you interact or behave around others, and how to mesh this well with potential job options.

In this program, we'll explore the DISC (Dominance, Influence, Steadiness and Conscientiousness) personality profile which provides a common workplace model to match personalities to careers. Knowing your personality type can help guide you towards personal and professional success and help you find a career you enjoy.

We'll also talk about the challenges each personality would potentially encounter at workplace or in communications. Hence, we provide some suggestions that help you prepare yourself for a happier career.

Speaker:

JANELLE LIM

- HR Manager (Learning & Development)
- Recruitment Consultant
- Corporate Trainer
- Bachelor of Psychology with Hons (Industrial & Organizational), University Malaysia Sabah